This document establishes the parameters of supervision, assists in supervisee professional development (licensure, post-licensure, developmental supervision, or student intern supervision), and provides clarity on supervisor responsibilities, including the responsibility of the supervisor to protect the client. By signing this document, both the supervisor and supervisee agree to the outlined roles, responsibilities, and parameters.

I. Competency Expectations

- A. Supervision will occur within a competency-based framework.
- B. Supervisees will self-assess their clinical competencies (knowledge, skills, values/attitudes).
- C. Supervisors will assess supervisees' competencies based on observations, competency instruments, and reviews of clinical work, comparing these assessments with the supervisee's self-assessments.

II. Context of Supervision

- A. Supervision hours will follow the guidelines specified in the Workplace Handbook, tailored to the supervisee's caseload (full-time, part-time, or low caseload).
- B. Group supervision sessions will adhere to organizational policies.
- C. Supervision will include review of documentation, case discussions, videotapes/audio recordings, progress notes, and treatment plans as applicable.
- D. Progress notes and treatment plans must be completed within 24-48 hours of sessions and available for review.

E. Supervision will incorporate various modalities such as live observation, role-play, discussion of clinical cases, and review of documentation.

III. Evaluation

A. Feedback will be provided during each supervision session, focused on competency-based practice.

B. Evaluations will occur quarterly, based on rubric-based assessments and compliance with ethical standards.

C. Supervisor notes may be shared with the supervisee at the supervisor's discretion and upon request.

D. Successful completion of supervision is contingent on achieving mutually established supervision goals.

E. If the supervisee is not meeting criteria, remedial actions will be initiated until performance meets required standards, or the supervision agreement is terminated.

IV. Duties and Responsibilities of the Supervisor

A. Oversees and monitors client case conceptualization and treatment planning.

B. Conducts evaluations based on supervision rubrics.

C. Documents each individual and group supervision session per procedural guidelines.

D. Ensures a supportive supervisory relationship while maintaining professionalism and ethical standards.

E. Signs off on all supervision notes by the required deadlines.

F. Maintains the distinction between clinical supervision and billing/compliance supervision, ensuring all aspects are properly addressed.

V. Duties and Responsibilities of the Supervisee

A. Upholds the ethical standards of their respective regulatory board.

B. Prepares case materials, including client notes, case conceptualizations, and relevant literature for discussion during supervision.

C. Engages in discussions related to transference, countertransference, and personal factors.

D. Implements supervisor feedback in client sessions as appropriate.

E. Understands and acknowledges the supervisor's legal responsibility for the supervisee's practice.

F. Discloses their status as a supervisee to clients and provides the supervisor's information when necessary.

VI. Procedural Aspects

- A. While confidentiality applies primarily to client-related matters, the supervisor will treat supervisee disclosures with discretion.
- B. Supervisee disclosures are subject to ethical and legal limits, including potential harm to self or others.
- C. If either the supervisor or supervisee cancels a session, it must be rescheduled promptly.
- D. The supervisee may contact the supervisor or the on-call supervisor in case of emergencies.
- E. The supervision contract will be reviewed quarterly and revised as needed with the consent of both parties.

VII. Telehealth Supervision Considerations

Use of AI for Transcription and Summarization

- A. AI technology may be used for transcription and summarization of supervision sessions in a HIPAA-compliant manner, ensuring confidentiality and data security. Audio transcription and summarization technologies, including Gemini or other AI platforms, may be utilized for clinical supervision purposes in a HIPAA-compliant manner to ensure complete confidentiality and data security.
- B. Client names will be redacted using initials, and supervisees must avoid sharing protected health information (PHI) Both the supervisor and supervisee explicitly agree to the use of audio transcription for supervision sessions.
- C. Client names will be redacted using initials, and supervisees must avoid sharing protected health information (PHI).

Definition of Telemental Health Supervision

- A. Supervision may be conducted remotely via secure, encrypted video communication.
- B. Participants must maintain confidentiality, refrain from sharing client identifiers, and engage respectfully.

Limitations of Telemental Health Supervision

- A. Potential risks include service interruptions, miscommunication due to reduced visual/auditory cues, and privacy challenges requiring secure environments.
- B. Supervisees must:
 - Find a private, quiet location.
 - Use a reliable internet connection.
 - Maintain session security and confidentiality.

Procedure for Technology Failures

- A. If technical issues occur, supervisees should attempt to reconnect and contact the supervisor if unsuccessful.
- B. An alternative contact method should be established in advance.

By signing this agreement, both the supervisor and supervisee acknowledge adherence to these terms and compliance with ethical and legal standards.
